Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☒ Responsive to communication(s) filed on 10 May 2007.
- 2a) ☐ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☒ This action is non-final.
- 3) ☐ Since this application is in condition for allowance except for formal matters, prosecution as to the merits is closed in accordance with the practice under Ex parte Quayle, 1935 C.D. 11, 453 O.G. 213.

Disposition of Claims

- 4) ☒ Claim(s) 21-26, 28, 30, 31 and 34-38 is/are pending in the application.

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 21-22, 25-26 and 34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Lutz (US 6,183,472). Lutz discloses a pedicle screw and assembly having a body (see fig. 4), arms extending from the body (portions adjacent to 26 and 28) each having internal threading (20) and each having an outer flange (16 and 18) that are capable of being attached to a detachable member (64 and 66). The device also includes a slot (34) for receiving an elongated member. Lutz further discloses a sleeve (42), a collar wherein the effective diameter of the body is larger than the diameter of the arms (see Fig. 4; body width at 14 compared to arm width at 18).

Claims 35-38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Biedermann et al. (US Patent 5,443,467). Biedermann et al. disclose a bone screw system comprising a collar (for reference, please see figure below), a body (5), arms with threads (16, and in opposing sides), a sleeve portion above the rod (13), a flange portion (see below), and channels (located in the top portion) that are substantially aligned with the slot (6) of the collar, and a fastener(1).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 23 and 24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lutz '472 in view of Biedermann '467. Lutz discloses the claimed invention except for a ring and a collar that is capable of rotating with respect to a bone fastener.

Biedermann discloses a pressure disk that is considered a ring (18) that enables the collar and bone anchor to be slidably disposed and be more secured (Col. 3, lines 45-62). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to construct the device of Lutz having at least a ring and a collar and fastener able to angulate when being slidably disposed in view of Biedermann to enable the collar and bone anchor to be slidably disposed and be more secured.

Claim 28 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lutz in view of Mellinger et al. (US 6,302,888). Lutz discloses the claimed invention except for flanges with an indentation, a female modified thread comprising a female proximal surface, and a male modified thread comprising a male proximal surface and a male distal surface, wherein the male proximal surface is configured to couple with the female distal surface, a male modified thread that slopes forward at an angle, all of modifications of which inhibit separation of the arms.

Mellinger et al. disclose an indentation (34) capable of associating with the flanges that allow the vertical faces to associate with an instrument in use (col. 4, lines 18-28), both male and female modified threads (See Fig. 6, items 40 and 50) that, with their respective proximal and distal sides, are capable of coupling with one another to better secure the arms in place (Col. 4, lines 28-42). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to construct the device of Lutz having at least an indentation and a male/female modified thread in view of

Art Unit: 3733

Mellinger et al. to allow a more secure attachment to an instrument and to better secure the arms, respectively.

Claims 30-31 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lutz '472 in view of Jackson (US 6,368,321). Lutz discloses the claimed invention except for one or more threaded openings proximate to at least one of the flanges. Jackson discloses a device having two threaded bores (53 and 54) that allow for better securement to a "ball-shaped member" or in the instant case, a rod member (Col. 4, lines 63-67 through Col. 5, lines 1-5). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to construct the device of Lutz having at least threaded openings in the side of the collar to allow attachment and better securing of the rod member in use.

Finality

The finality of the previous office action dated 4/20/2007 has been withdrawn.

Allowable Subject Matter

The indicated allowability of claims 35-38 are withdrawn in view of the newly discovered reference(s) to Biedermann et al. (US Patent 5,443,467). Rejections based on the newly cited reference(s) follow.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
